DONALD LUNDBERG IS PRACTITIONER IN RESIDENCE THIS WEEK

Donald Lundberg will be a practitioner in residence this Wednesday and Thursday. Mr. Lundberg graduated from the law school summa cum laude in 1976, and began working for Legal Services Organization of Indiana. He became LSO's Litigation Director in 1981, and retained that post until 1991, when he became Executive Secretary of the Indiana Supreme Court Disciplinary Commission. Mr. Lundberg will be participating in several classes during his visit, including Commercial Transactions, Legal Professions, and Property.

PROTECTIVE ORDER PROJECT TRAINING TONIGHT

The I.U. Law School Protective Order Project is a group of volunteer law students and attorneys who provide civil legal assistance to victims of domestic violence. Law student volunteers interview victims and witnesses, draft pleadings, gather evidence, and attend court hearings. If you are interested in providing assistance to abuse victims and obtaining valuable experience at the same time, POP needs you. There will be a training session Monday, Feb. 21, at 7:00 p.m. in Rm. 122. If you would like further information, please see Dawnya Taylor (3L) or Dean Robel.

SOUTH AFRICAN LAWYER TO SPEAK MARCH 3

The Law School will host an informal talk, "International Law and Violence Against Women," by Navi Pillay, a South African lawyer, on Thursday, March 3rd at 4:00 in the Faculty Lounge. Ms. Pillay is being brought to the campus by the Office of Women's Affairs and will give a public lecture later that evening at 7:30 pm at Rawles Hall, room 100.

Dr. Pillay is a social, legal, and political activist from South Africa and works for equitable treatment of all people within her own country and internationally as the chair of Equity Now, an organization that monitors human rights violations against women. In her public lecture she plans to discuss issues such as global incidence of violence against women including the Bosnian war against women, trafficking of women and children in East Asia and the Middle East, child labor and killings of female children in India and China, and control of women's sexuality and reproductive rights.

INDIANA COURT OF APPEALS HERE MARCH 3

The Indiana Court of Appeals will be sitting in the Moot Court Room on March 3 to hear oral arguments. Abstracts of the briefs will be published next week for students interested in attending.

Armed Assault Occurs Behind Law School

A university student reported to I.U. Police that she was raped by an assailant armed with a knife in the woods near the sidewalk that connects the Law School to Maxwell Hall, on January 24 between 6:30-7:00 p.m. We urge all students to be especially careful; the university police have not arrested a suspect in this assault.

NEWS FROM THE FACULTY

Fred Cate published "United States Laws Regulation International Telecommunications Products and Services," in the 1993 International Communications Practice Handbook. Ralph Gaebler and Michael Maben will be presenting a paper at the 14th Annual Conference of the

Indiana Association of Historians on Feb. 26, at New Harmony. The title of our talk is "Indiana's Response to Immigration: Indiana Revised Statutes and Session Laws Published in German."

CAREER SERVICES OFFICE

Upcoming Seminars:

Focus on Small Employer Hiring, Tuesday, February 22

3:00 p.m.; Mt. Ct Room.

Three Indiana attorneys discuss how to locate and secure employment with smaller law firms. The attorneys will discuss the importance of networking to find job openings, how to enter small town markets, and how the development of networks will allow you to succeed in practice. Excellent seminar for all students looking for employment with smaller sized law firms.

Exploring Areas of Law Practice: Civil Rights, Criminal Defense & Plaintiff's Medical Malpractice

Thursday, February 24; 12:00 p.m.; Mt. Court Room

Bring your lunch and learn about three interesting areas of law practice! Don Lundberg who works with the Supreme Court Disciplinary Commission (formerly with Indiana Legal Service Corporation) will discuss Civil Rights Litigation; Richard Kammen (recently rated as one of Indiana's Best Criminal Defense Attorneys) will discuss his career; and Mary Findling (rated as one of Indiana's top Medical Malpractice-Plaintiff's Attorneys) will discuss her work.

Indiana Law Practice, Tuesday, March 1

3:00 p.m., Room 122

Attorneys from the Indiana State Bar Association's Younger Lawyer's Division discuss the advantages of practicing law in Indiana. They will discuss various Indiana legal communities, the ISBA YLD Section and their activities, how to network as a young attorney, and the rewards of Indiana law practice.

EVENTS, LECTURES

Fish and Wildlife Service to Discuss Patoka River Wetlands Project Tuesday in Moot Court Room

Bill McCoy of the US Fish and Wildlife Service will discuss the proposed Patoka River National Wetlands Project on Tuesday, February 22 at 12:15 in the Moot Court Room. The Patoka River Wetlands Project aims to protect 22,000 acres of forested bottomland wetlands in southwest Indiana. These wetlands are the LAST remaining bottomland wetlands in the midwest. Many interesting issues and environmental statutes have impacted this project including:

- National Environmental Policy Act
- Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act
- Emergency Wetlands Protection Act
- Takings

The coal industry and the Farm Bureau are lobbying to scrap the project or to weaken the protection measures such that the future of the wetland will be in jeopardy. Please attend this presentation. Formal comment forms will be supplied so that interested individuals can express their position on the project. Don't underestimate the power of your formal comment in favor of the project. They make a difference. Pack your lunch or run across the street and grab something to bring back and join us in the Moot Court Room. Learn about the administrative process and help protect a vanishing natural resource. We need your support. A copy of the Draft Environmental Impact Statement is on reserve in the library if you would like more information on the Patoka River National Wetlands Project.

Professor Discusses Judicial Language in Shakespeare this Friday

Patricia Parker, Professor of Comparative Literature and English at Stanford University, will present a lecture, "Preposterous Shakespeare: Judicial Language, Forms of Discourse, and the Body in Shakespeare" this Friday, February 25, at 4 pm, in Ballantine Hall 310.

Professor Parker is the author of Inescapable Romance and Literary Fat Ladies: Rhetoric, Gender, Property, and numerous influential articles on a wide range of topics, including interdisciplinary studies in literature and early modern law, medicine, science, and espionage. In addition, she has co-edited several volumes of essays: Shakespeare and the Question of Theory, Literary Theory/Renaissance Texts, and Women, "Race," and Writing in the Early Modern Period. Her lecture here is taken from a forthcoming book, Preposterous Shakespeare, to be published by Routledge.

The talk is being sponsored by the Department of English, The Renaissance Studies Program, The Department of Theatre and Drama, The Law and Society Program of the IU Law School, The Department of Comparative Literature and Horizons of Knowledge.

Noam Chomsky : The Middle East in the New World Order Feb. 28

Noam Chomsky, noted linguist and political theorist, will present a Patten Lecture on "The Middle East in the New World Order," Monday, February 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the I.U. Auditorium. He will give a second lecture, "Language and the 'Cognitive Revolution'" on Wednesday, March 2, at 7:30 in the I.U. Auditorium.
